Over two million people visit Lake Whitney each year to enjoy camping, fishing, boating, water skiing, hunting, sight-seeing, and much more.

Lake Whitney is known as "The Getaway Capital of Texas." It's clear, blue water and its diverse shoreline of woods, sandy beaches and steep, stony bluffs make it one of the most popular recreational Texas lakes. Scuba divers love Lake Whitney due to the fantastic diving in areas like Lofers Bend Park, Soldiers Bluff Park, Cliffs on Little Rocky Creek and King Creek around the stony little island called King Creek Rock.

Recreation

Lake Whitney State Park: 955-acres and was acquired in 1954 by a Department of the Army lease and opened in May 1965. The park is along the east shore of Lake Whitney west of Hillsboro in Hill County. The park is located on Lake Whitney near ruins of Towash, an early Texas settlement inundated by Lake Whitney. Towash Village was named for the chief of Hainai Indians, who moved into the area in 1835. Things to do at the park:

- Take a hike on the nature trail and explore the flora and fauna of the park. Check for scheduled hikes with a ranger or pick up a trail guide at the park office.
- Watch the wildlife that live in the park. Morning and evening are the best times to see white-tailed deer, armadillos, raccoons and skunks. Please don't feed the wildlife—nature's foods are healthier.
- Go fishing for bass, stripers and catfish. The park hosts an annual youth fishing tournament the first Saturday of June.
- Get your binoculars and look for the 194 species of birds sighted at Lake Whitney, including raptors, songbirds and waterfowl.
- Enjoy the stars and dark night skies. Check the park's calendar of events for star parties hosted by local astronomy clubs.

Dinosaur Valley State Park: Located just northwest of Glen Rose in Somervell County, is a 1524.72-acre, scenic park set astride the Paluxy River. The land for the park was acquired from private owners under the State Parks Bonds Program during 1968 and opened to the public in 1972. Dinosaur Valley State Park contains some of the best preserved dinosaur tracks in the world.

Other nearby recreations: Cleburne State Park, Meridian State Park, and Mother Neff State Park; The Confederate Museum; Texas Ranger Hall of Fame; and Fossil Rim Exotic Wildlife Ranch.
